

9.3 Tourism is a growing industry

It is beneficial to know what a good answer looks like. Recognising what makes an answer 'good' will help you to write better responses. First, answer the following questions.

- 1 Explain how tourism can affect the environment of a region. [4]

- 2 Study Figures 9.5 and 9.6. Describe the negative impacts of tourism visible in the images. [4]

Figure 9.5: Tourists heading to Ed-Deir Monastery, a UNESCO World Heritage Site in Jordan

Figure 9.6: Tourists visiting the Great Pyramid of Giza, a UNESCO World Heritage Site in Egypt

Now you have answered the two preceding questions, look at the following example student responses to both questions. How could you improve these answers?

- 1 Tourism is bad for the environment as it can create pollution. In addition to this, people are employed in seasonal, poorly paid jobs. There can be a loss of culture as incomers demand food similar to what they're used to.
- 2 Negative impacts of tourism involve litter and noise. Tourists sometimes don't think about locals, and this can be offensive. Tourists can also bring benefits too, such as money and jobs.

If you need some help, think about the following:

- Question 1 asks about how tourism affects the environment. This means answers should only discuss environmental issues.
- Question 2 uses the words 'visible in the images'. The question does not ask you to talk about things you can't see, or to make assumptions about what you think tourists are like.

- Providing examples of positive and negative effects can give you answer balance and improve the amount of detail. Question 1 did not specify positive or negative effects, so you can discuss both. Question 2 only asked for negative effects, so you should not talk about positive effects here.

Now read the following stronger example student response to see what good answers to these questions look like.

- 1 Tourism can be both good and bad for the environment. The construction of secondary tourist resources, such as large hotels, roads and airports, can destroy habitats. Tourists arriving on aeroplanes and travelling in cars burn fossil fuels and contribute to carbon emissions. However, tourists can also mean that the environment of a place is protected. For example, tourists visiting a safari would encourage locals to protect the animals rather than hunt them. There is also a growing trend for ecotourism, which is a form of tourism that works to protect natural environments
- 2 In Figure 9.5, there are a lot of tourists squeezing through small gaps in the rock, which may cause erosion. The monastery may also be a sacred site, and it could be disrespectful in some cultures to visit such sites in large numbers. In Figure 9.6, tourists are walking up the sides of the pyramid. This could damage the structure and could be seen by some as bad-mannered. Some tourists have their shoulders, legs and heads exposed, which can show a lack of respect in some cultures.

Now return to your answers to Questions 1 and 2 and improve them according to what you have learned about what makes a good answer.

REFLECTION

Can you see the differences between the first set of student responses and the second set? Student 1 hasn't read the questions properly. They have included answers that cannot be credited. For example, if a question asks you to identify things from an image, you should not list things that cannot be seen in the image! Which of the responses was most like your answers? Did you manage to improve your responses once you had seen what good answers look like?

UNDERSTAND THESE TERMS

- Ecotourism
- Primary tourist resources
- Secondary tourist resources

3 Put the following words into the correct place on Figure 9.7, showing the Butler Model:

- Involvement
- Decline
- Consolidation

Figure 9.7: The Butler Model

► Image Description

- 4 Which stages of the Butler Model can be described as:
- a a major change in direction or focus that happens to attract a new type of tourist.
 - b the tourist destination is well-known but is no longer a destination of choice.

SELF-ASSESSMENT CHECKLIST

Let's revisit the knowledge focus and exam skills focus for this topic.

Decide how confident you are with each statement.

Now I can	Show it	Needs more work	Almost there	Confident to move on
Describe how a country's economy changes as it develops	How do employment sectors of HICs differ from those of LICs?
Explain the impacts of globalisation and the role of TNCs	What are the social, economic and environmental impacts of globalisation and TNCs?
Identify the reasons for the growth in global tourism	What factors have led to the growth in global tourism?
Explain the benefits and problems of	What are the social, economic and

Now I can	Show it	Needs more work	Almost there	Confident to move on global tourism	environmental impacts of global tourism?
Understand the command word 'locate'	Answer a 'locate' question confidently, such as 'Locate a resort that is unable to compete with newer tourist attractions on the Butler Model.'
Understand the assessment phrase 'how far do you agree'	Answer a 'how far do you agree' question confidently, such as 'How far do you agree that tourism has brought benefits to a country that you have studied?'
Show that I understand what a good answer looks like	Look at some of your previous work that your teacher did not score highly. Re-write it to try and improve your original score.

Now I can	Show it	Needs more work	Almost there	Confident to move on